What's the best thing about the NHS? Which medication smells like beer? What if the Fresh Prince was a pharmacist? If the third Die Hard movie had been called "Die Hard with a Viagra", would the plot have been different? This book has the answers!

We are in the middle of a "Great Pharmacy Depression". People need cheering up. I have the answer. "Pills, Thrills and Methadone Spills: Adventures of a Community Pharmacist" is a collection of the best blogs, tweets and anecdotes about the wonderful world of pharmacy.

"If the shutter is three quarters down, then we are shut and not just vertically challenged..."

"Gave me huge insight into the "real" world of community pharmacy " I didn't realise just how much pharmacists deal with on a day to day basis, so for me this was very informative, but in a really clever, and massively funny way!" Lucy Pitt, Marketing Manager, The Pharmacy Show

"As well as being brilliantly funny, this book is a refreshingly honest view of the world of pharmacy. From student pharmacists to the fully-qualified, every chapter provides a story that the reader can relate to and enjoy." Georgia Salter, Pharmacy Student

"A well observed reflection of life in pharmacy with very funny reflections" Catherine Duggan, Royal Pharmaceutical Society

"It is always fun to be reminded that pharmacists' perils and fun at the workplace are similar irrespective of which country we practise in!" Selina Hui-Hoong Wee , Pharmacist, Malaysia

"A great entertaining and amusing read" Mike Holden, Chief Executive, National Pharmacy Association
